

KILLS LITTLE BOY TO SHOW OFF WITH HIS NEW REVOLVER

Strange Youth Invades Fortress of Bronx Boys' Gang and Shoots.

THREATENS PURSUERS.

Widom Runs Home and Falls Dead in Arms of Recently Widowed Mother.

Boy has been found of the well dressed boy who yesterday afternoon shot to death eleven-year-old Joseph

JOSEPH KEATING

Keating of No. 55 Robbins avenue, the Bronx, while the little chap was playing on a high bluff of rock bounded by One Hundred and Forty-ninth street, Eagle, Trinity and Westchester avenues.

The killing was purely a reckless prank. The unknown boy had a new revolver and wanted to show off. He saw the crowd of little boys playing on the bluff and climbed up to scare them. He was accompanied by a boy in short trousers and as he approached the group of boys in which young Keating was playing he turned to his companion and said:

"Watch me wing a kid." Then he fired and the Keating boy fell, mortally wounded.

LAD'S BACK WAS TURNED TO SHOOTER.

The majority of little Joe Keating's companions had managed to duck out of range. They had seen the strange boy flourishing the revolver. Joe Keating had his back turned and it was not until he heard the warning shouts of his companions and swung round that he was aware of his peril. The strange boy fired, the moment he turned.

Although the bullet grazed the Keating boy's heart, he managed to run home to his mother. Then he fell unconscious into her arms, and he died

MORE than $300,000 have been expended in remodelling, enlarging and refurnishing. Luxurious appointments, perfect service and a famous cuisine make the New Mt. Kineo unrivaled among summer resorts.

The hotel is now managed by the Ricker Hotel Co., who have made famous "The Poland Spring" and "The Samson," Rockland, Maine. The genius of this family for hotel keeping has made their name the synonym for all that the most particular taste can desire.

Kineo is in the heart of the Maine forest on beautiful Moosehead Lake. Golf and tennis at their best, canoeing, motor boating, bathing and fishing—or mountain climbing, riding and driving for those who love the woods. Dances, music, cards and pleasant companionship round out a delightful summer life.

Through Pullman Service leaving New York from Grand Central Terminal in the evening and reaching Kineo in the forenoon (Dining Cars). The journey itself through picturesque New England is a delight.
